No consideration to trade should be made without thoroughly understanding and reviewing the risks involved in such trading. If you are unsure, you must seek professional advice on the same.

In considering whether to trade or authorize someone to trade for you, you should be aware of or must get acquainted with the following.

1. BASIC RISKS :1.1 Risk of Higher Volatility :

Volatility refers to the dynamic changes in price that a security/derivatives contract undergoes when trading activity continues on the Stock Exchanges. Generally, higher the volatility of a security / derivatives contract, is its price swings. There may be normally greater volatility in thinly traded securities / derivatives contracts that in active securities / derivatives contracts. As a result of volatility, your order may only be partially executed or not executed at all, or the price at which your order got executed may be substantially different from the last traded price or change substantially thereafter, resulting in notional or real losses.

1.2 Risk of Lower Liquidity :

Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and/or sell securities / derivatives contracts expeditiously at a competitive price and with minimal price difference. Generally, it is assumed that more the numbers of orders available in a market, greater is the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity, it is easier for investors to buy and/or sell securities / derivatives contracts swiftly and with minimal price difference, and as result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities / derivatives contracts purchased or sold. There may be a risk of lower liquidity in some securities / derivatives contracts as compared to active securities / derivatives contracts. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or may be executed, or may be executed with relatively greater price difference or may not be executed at all.

1.2.1. Buying or selling securities / derivatives contracts as part of a day trading strategy may also into losses, because in such a situation, securities / derivatives contracts may have to be sold /purchased at low / high prices, compared to the expected price levels, so as not to have any open position or obligation to deliver or receive a security / derivatives contract.

1.3 Risk of Wider Spreads :

Spread refers to the difference in best buy price and best sell price. It represents the differential between the price of buying a security / derivatives contract and immediately selling it or vice versa. Lower liquidity and higher volatility may result in wider than normal spreads for less liquid or illiquid securities / derivatives contracts. This in turn will hamper better price formation.

1.4 Risk-reducing orders :

The placing of orders (e.g., "stop loss" orders, or "limit" orders which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts may not be effective many a time because rapid movement in market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders.

1.4.1. A "market" order will be executed promptly, subject to availability of orders on opposite side, without regard to price and that, while the customer may receive a prompt execution of a "market" order, the execution may be at available prices of outstanding orders, which satisfy the order quantity, on price time priority. It may be understood that these prices may be significantly different from the last traded price or the best price in that security / derivatives contract.

1.4.2. A "limit" order will be executed only at the "limit" price specified for the order or a better price. However, while the customer receives price protection, there is a possibility that the order may not be executed at all.

1.4.3. A stop loss order is generally placed "away" from the current price of a stock / derivatives contract, and such order gets activated if and when the security / derivatives contract reaches, or trades through, the stop price. Sell stop orders are entered ordinarily below the current price and buy stop orders are entered ordinarily above the current price. When the security / derivatives contract reaches the pre-determined price, or trades through such stop loss order converts to a market/limit order is executed at the limit or better. There is no assurance therefore that the limit order will be executable since a security / derivatives contract might penetrate the pre-determined price, in which case, the risk of such order not getting executed arises, just as with a regular limit order.

1.5 Risk of News Announcements :

News announcements that may impact the price of stock / derivatives contract may occur during trading, and when combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may suddenly cause an unexpected positive or negative movement in the price of the security / contract.

1.6 Risk of Rumors :

Rumors about companies / currencies at times float in the market through word of mouth, newspapers, websites or news agencies, etc. the investors should be wary of and should desist from acting on rumors.

1.7 System Risk :

High volume trading will frequently occur at the market opening and before market close. Such high volumes may also occur at any point in the day. These may cause delays in order execution or confirmation.

1.7.1. During periods of volatility, on account of market participants continuously modifying their order quantity or prices or placing fresh orders, there may be delays in order execution and its confirmations.

1.7.2. Under certain market conditions, it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position in the market at a reasonable price or at all, when there are no outstanding orders either on the buy side or the sell side, or if trading is halted in a security / derivatives contract due to any action on account of unusual trading activity or security / derivatives contract hitting circuit filters or for any other reason.

1.8 System / Network congestion :

Trading on exchanges is in electronic mode, based on satellite / leased line based communications, combination of technologies and computer systems to place and route orders. Thus, there exists a possibility of communication failure or system problems or slow or delayed response from system or trading halt, or any such other problem / glitch whereby not being able to establish access to the trading system / network, which may be beyond control and may result in delay in processing or not processing buy or sell orders either in part or in full. You are cautioned to note that although these problems may be temporary in nature, but when you have outstanding open positions or unexpected orders, these represent a risk because of your obligations to settle all executed transactions.

2. As far as derivatives segments are concerned, please not and get yourself acquainted with the following additional features :

2.1 Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing"

In the derivatives market, the amount of margin is small relative to the value of the derivatives contract so the transactions are 'leveraged' or 'geared'. Derivatives trading, which is conducted with a relatively small amount of margin, provides the possibility of great profit or loss in comparison with the margin amount. But transactions in derivatives carry a high degree of risk.

You should therefore completely understand the following statements before actually trading in derivatives and also trade with caution while taking into account one's circumstances, financial resources, etc. If the prices move against you, you may lose a part of whole margin amount in a relatively short period of time. Moreover, the loss may exceed the original margin amount.

A. Futures trading involve daily settlement of all positions. Every day the open positions are market to market based on the closing level of the index / derivatives contract. If the contract has moved against you, you will be required to deposit the amount of loss (notional) resulting from such movement. This amount will have to be paid within a stipulated time frame, generally before commencement of trading on next day.

B. If you fail to deposit the additional amount the deadline or if an outstanding debt occurs in your account, the stock broker may liquidate a part of the whole position or substitute securities. In this case, you will be liable for any losses incurred due to such close-outs.

C. Under certain market conditions, an investor may find it difficult or impossible to execute transactions. For example, this situation can occur due to factors such as illiquidity i.e. when there are insufficient bids or offers or suspension of trading due to price limit or circuit breakers etc.

D. In order to maintain market stability, the following steps may be adopted. changes in the margin rate, increases in the cash margin rate or others. These new measures may also be applied to the existing open interest. In such conditions, you will be required to put up additional margins or reduce your positions.

E. You must ask your broker to provide the full details of derivatives contracts you plan to trade i.e. the contract specifications and the associated obligations.

2.2 Currency specific risks :

1. The profit or loss in transactions in foreign currency - denominated contracts, whether they are traded in your own or another jurisdiction, will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to another currency.

2. Under certain market conditions, you may find it difficult or impossible to liquidate a position. This can occur, for example when a currency is deregulated or fixed trading bands are widened.

3. Currency prices are highly volatile. Price movements for currencies are influenced by, among other things : changing supply-demand relationship; trade, fiscal, monetary, exchange control programs and policies of governments foreign political and economics events and policies; changes in national and international interest rates and inflation; currency devaluation; and sentiment of the market place. None of these factors can be controlled by any individual advisor and no assurance can be given that an advisor's advice will result in profitable trades for a participating customer or that a customer will not incur losses from such events.

2.3 Risk of Option Holders :

1. An option holder runs the risk of losing the entire amount paid for the option in a relatively short period of time. This risk reflects the nature of an option as wasting asset which becomes worthless when it expires. An option holder who neither sells his option in the secondary market nor exercise it prior to its expiration will necessarily lose his entire investment in the option. If the price of the underlying does not change in the anticipated direction before the option expires, to an extent sufficient to cover the cost to the option, the investor may lose all or a significant part of his investment in the option.

2. The Exchanges may impose exercise restrictions and have absolute authority to restrict the exercise of options at certain times in specified circumstances.

2.4 Risk of Option Writers :

1. If the price movement of the underlying is not in the anticipated direction, the option writer runs the risk of losing substantial amount.

2. The risk of being an option write may be reduced by the purchase of other options on the same underlying interest and thereby assuming a spread position or by acquiring other types of hedging positions in the market or other markets. However, even where the write has assumed a spread or other hedging position, the risks may still be significant. A spread position is not necessarily less risky than a simple 'long' or 'short' position.

3. Transaction that involve buying and writing multiple option in combination, or buying or writing options in combination with buying or selling short the underlying interests, present additional risks to investors. Combination transactions, such as option spreads, are more complex than buying or writing a single option. An it should be further noted that, as in any area of investing, a complexity not well understood is, in itself, a risk factor. While this is not suggest that combination strategies should not be considered, it is advisable, as is the case with all investments in options, to consult with someone who is experienced and knowledgeable with respect to the risks and potential rewards of combination transactions under various market circumstances.

3. TRADING THROUGH WIRELESS TECHNOLOGY / SMART ORDER OR ANY OTHER TECHNOLOGY :

Any additional provisions defining the features, risks, responsibilities, obligations and liabilities associated with securities trading through wireless technology / smart order routing or any other technology should be through to the notice of the client by the stock broker.

4. GENERAL

Policy Framework for Voluntary Freezing/Blocking of Online Trading Account Access for Clients

Annexure to Risk Management Policy

Introduction

In an effort to enhance the ease of business operations and investment activities for investors, and to safeguard investors from suspicious activities, SEBI, through its circular ref. No. SEBI/HO/MIRSD/POD-1/P/CIR/2024/4 dated January 12, 2024, has mandated a framework for stock exchanges. This framework requires Trading Members to provide clients with the facility to voluntarily freeze/block online access to their trading accounts. Consequently, stock exchanges have issued circulars detailing this framework. In line with these directives, the following policy has been formulated for the voluntary freezing/blocking of trading accounts.

1. Mode of Request for Freezing/Blocking the Trading Account

Clients can use following options to freeze/block their trading account:

Clients can send an email to stoptrade@hardikgroup.com from their registered email ID. Upon receipt of the email, the Hardik team will call the client to confirm the request. The client must accept the call and complete the necessary confirmation steps.

2. Procedure to Unfreeze/Unblock the Account

Clients wishing to unfreeze/unblock their account must send an email to stoptrade@hardikgroup.com from their registered email ID. Upon receipt of the email, the Hardik team will contact the client to confirm the request. The account will be unfrozen only after the client confirms the request over the call.

Timelines for Freezing/Blocking the Online Access:

Scenario	Timelines for Issuing Acknowledgement and Freezing/Blocking
Request received during trading hours and within 15 minutes before the start of trading	Within 15 minutes
Request received after trading hours and 15 minutes before the start of the next trading session	Before the start of the next trading session

Note: By opting to block/freeze the account, you are only blocking online access to your trading account. There will be no restrictions on the risk management activities of Hardik Fintrade Pvt. Ltd.

Clarifications

- Freezing/blocking only restricts online access to the client's trading account. There will be no restrictions on the risk management activities of Hardik Fintrade Pvt. Ltd.
- The request for freezing/blocking does not equate to marking the client's Unique Client Code (UCC) as inactive in the Exchange records.

This policy shall be effective from July 01, 2024.
